

Anne Ballard, MPH

Program Officer | Johns Hopkins Center for Communication Programs

Anne Ballard, MPH is a Program Officer on the Delivering Oral Vaccine Effectively (DOVE) Project with the Johns Hopkins School of Public Health and the Johns Hopkins Center for Communication Programs. As part of the DOVE team, Anne support knowledge management activities, website maintenance, social media, communications and monitoring and evaluation. Anne's background in public health includes knowledge management for global health, family planning, gender and research. Anne served as a health volunteer with the Peace Corps in Guatemala and holds a Master of Global Public Health from George Washington University.

Source URL: <https://stopcholera.org/blog/authors/anne-ballard-mp>